How scoring works in Papayoo

- At the end of the round, each player counts the penalty points of the cards they collected.
- The Payoo cards, numbered 1 to 20, are worth their face value: 210 points in all. The Papayoo, the 7 of the suit chosen by the die, is worth 40 points. The other cards are worth nothing.
- A round therefore always hands out 250 penalty points. If the table adds up to anything else, a card was missed.
- A game usually lasts as many rounds as there are players, so that everyone deals once. The lowest total wins.
