How scoring works in UNO

- When a player plays their last card, the round ends and every other player counts the cards left in their hand.
- Number cards are worth their face value. Draw Two, Reverse and Skip are worth 20 points. Wild and Wild Draw Four are worth 50 points.
- Tour de table uses the variant in which each player scores the points left in their own hand: the round winner scores 0. When a player reaches 500 points, the game ends and the lowest total wins.
